

Fraud Reporting Policy

The Violation of GCCLAB Brand and Fraud Reporting Policy is established to facilitate the development of controls that will help in the detection and prevention of fraud against GCCLAB Inc.

The integrity and value of GCCLAB certifications involve the passing of exams by demonstrating independence and ethical pursuit in doing so. Here at GCCLAB, we share core values and beliefs in that not only GCCLAB certifications, but each certification is a privilege that must be earned and maintained legitimately.

We constantly work to ensure that we deliver the highest caliber exams, assessment and training courses, and we deem it vital to protect their validity, value, integrity, and restricted use. For this purpose, we have numerous policies and procedures in place that outline the responsibilities of each candidate and the consequences of violating these policies.

GCCLAB credentials are recognized as achievement that confirm knowledge, validate competence, and experience, and add value to the individual and society as a whole. Our exams, assessment, training courses, and certifications are considered GCCLAB's intellectual property and as such are protected by copyright laws. We do not tolerate activities that aim to diminish the value of our exams, training courses, and credentials including those that constitute fraudulent or criminal practices, and we take actions to eliminate any activities that hamper the ethical pursuit of the GCCLAB credentials. Thus, if irregularities are discovered, GCCLAB takes steps for resolution including suspension of exam activities or decertification if warranted. To further defend the professionalism and the integrity of our credentials, all our candidates are required to adhere to the GCCLAB Code of Ethics.
